Dear Eric:

As you may know, in mid-1988 the ANA Board of Governors approved the formation of an Editorial Advisory Board, which will be responsible for reviewing the editorial direction of the Association's three publications--The Numismatist, First Strike and The ANA Communiqué.

I recently met with ANA President Stephen Taylor to discuss potential members of this Advisory Board, and we both agreed that with your knowledge of numismatics, writing and education, you would be a valuable and most welcome participant. If such an appointment interests you, please read the accompanying proposal, which describes the operation of the Editorial Advisory Board and the duties of its members. The first meeting is slated for the ANA's 98th Anniversary Convention in Pittsburgh.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me. Your participation will help insure the integrity and relevance of ANA publications for the years to come.

Sincerely,

Robert J. Leuver
Executive Director

EDITORIAL ADVISORY BOARD

1. Composition

The Editorial Advisory Board comprises up to five members appointed by the ANA President; in addition, the Executive Director will be an ex-officio member. Members serve at the pleasure of the president and will be listed in each issue of The Numismatist, the Association's official organ, and First Strike, the ANA's quarterly publication for emerging numismatists.

2. Duties

The Board will meet annually at the ANA's anniversary conventions to review the editorial mission, goal, direction and plan of the ANA's three publications--The Numismatist, First Strike and The ANA Communiqué (the Association's quarterly newsletter); to offer comments and suggestions concerning the publications' past performance and direction; and to review/appoint Contributing Editors.

CONTRIBUTING EDITORS

1. Composition

To be reviewed/appointed by the Editorial Advisory Board.

2. Duties

Contributing Editors will review submitted manuscripts for The Numismatist and First Strike in their respective areas of expertise and will offer their recommendations. (It is suggested that the roster of Contributing Editors not be identical for both publications, although some individuals may serve both.)

When manuscripts arrive in the editorial office, they will be acknowledged immediately with a postcard, indicating that the manuscript has been received and that it will be reviewed within the next 45-50 days by members of the editorial staff and Contributing Editors.

Once or twice each month, copies of manuscripts will be mailed to the appropriate Contributing Editors. Accompanying each article will be an evaluation sheet. Editors will be given up to two weeks to review each manuscript.

Contributing Editors will be listed in each issue of The Numismatist and First Strike. Such editors receive no remuneration for their services, but perhaps certificates of appointment would be issued and letters of appreciation presented annually.

As part of their responsibilities, editors may be asked to write one article or two book reviews each calendar year for publication in The Numismatist or First Strike. For feature articles, they will be paid the established rate.

Dear Eric,

This year members of the American Numismatic Association must elect seven candidates to fill the positions of the president, vice president and board of governors. These offices will be vacated in 1989 because of expiring terms. Election of new officers will be held in July and the results announced at the Pittsburgh convention in August.

I intend to run for a seat on the board of governors in this election and would appreciate your backing and support. As a 40 year member of the ANA I feel that I can bring a wealth of experience to the office, and that I can represent all segments of membership in making plans for a stronger and more responsive organization.

Key objectives in my platform are to serve the needs of members without the constant dues increases that I feel in the past have been brought about by misdirected programs, to establish a limit to the number of terms that a board member can serve, and to require reporting of the way that individual board members vote on policy issues at board meetings.

I will be asking for the support of all ANA members in this election, but just now I especially need the backing of a few close friends to nominate me as a candidate. Bylaws require that these be sent to the ANA Executive Director no earlier than February 1, and no later than April 15, 1989. Enclosed is a sample of the form that should be used for my nomination.

Your suggestions and advice as to how I can serve to improve the ANA and establish better relations between its members and clubs will also be very much appreciated. It is time for many changes, and I want to be a part of bringing about necessary improvements.

I reserve the right to withdraw if any other named member of the Board does not meet the standards we believe ANA stands for.

Keep doing a fine job.

TO: SEE ATTACHED
FROM: JAMES TAYLOR, EDUCATION DIRECTOR
RE: REVITALIZING THE CORRESPONDENCE COURSE PROGRAM

Since January 1, when I assumed the position of Educational Services Director for ANA, one of my first priorities has been to revitalize our correspondence course program. Frankly, it has been in the doldrums for sometime. I have spoken with a number of people who have been involved with the program and, with their help, have formulated a plan of action.

Plans are being developed to streamline the administration of the program so that students can move more easily and more quickly through the entire course. As for the course itself, much of it was written more than a decade ago. It needs to be revised and additional chapters must be included. What we intend to produce is a single correspondence course that is designed for both beginning adult and young (precocious 14 year olds and older) numismatists. The text should be dynamic and contemporary and should include pertinent visuals wherever appropriate. The course will be available to everyone, not just ANA members.

However, we need your help to accomplish all of this fairly quickly. Would you be willing to revise the chapter and test that you wrote quite some time ago? As I envision it, most of the chapters could be revised in a few evenings.

Enclosed is a self-addressed, stamped postcard for you to respond. Please check the appropriate box, sign it and return it to me.

The correspondence course is important to the future of numismatics. Everyday we receive applications to participate in the program. The course is the only one like it. It fills a void in the numismatic educational field. I am certain that with your help we will have a product of which we can once again be proud.

I look forward to working with you.

SUBJECT: Editorial Board for The Numismatist and First Strike.

Thank you for volunteering to be members of the Editorial Board of The Numismatist and First Strike. You are all accomplished individuals in your own right and within the hobby.

I look forward to some very progressive ideas and direction from you all. Our annual meeting will be important. Regarding that annual meeting at the Annual Convention, I will provide an agenda later.

Steve Taylor had invited five members of the hobby to serve. One declined due to a conflict of interest. However, Steve Taylor felt that the prestige of the four of you would offer tremendous opportunities for our publications.

Dear Mr. Taylor:

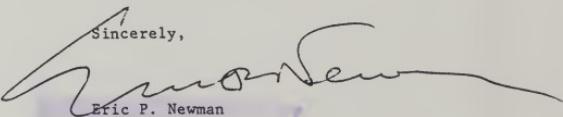

Welcome to your new position.

Your request to have me revise the chapter I wrote on Early American Money is at hand. You indicate you want it streamlined and visuals added.

There is a duplicate subject under the title "U.S. Colonial Coinage & Paper Currency" written by John Ryder. I do not know him and suggest you clear up any overlap first.

I believe the taxation and investment subjects are counter-productive to numismatic education when so many other categories are omitted, such as U.S. paper money, confederate issues, various U.S. denominations, patterns, pioneer gold, mint history, etc.

RE: REVISION OF YOUR CORRESPONDENCE COURSE CHAPTER

Thank you for agreeing to revise the chapter you wrote quite some time ago as part of ANA's correspondence course program. Virtually everyone who was contacted said they wanted to revise their chapter.

Included with this letter is our most recent version of your chapter. Feel free to work from this document, another document that you may have, or, from a fresh sheet of paper.

As you revise your chapter please consider the following ideas:

- Try to write the text at a level that would be appropriate for a precocious 14 year old and, at the same time, an adult.
- You should presume that most of the students will have only a basic numismatic knowledge base.
- We hope the course is challenging but not so difficult so that people are deterred.
- The text should be dynamic and contemporary, fun and interesting.
- Please include pertinent visuals wherever appropriate.
- Write captions for each visual.
- Ideally, each chapter should conclude with 20 objective test questions (true/false, multiple choice, matching, fill in the blank). Objective tests, though far from perfect, can, at least, be quickly graded by the ANA staff and the results sent back quickly to the students.
- Update your biographical sketch. If there is not one then please write one. Do not be bashful.

I would greatly appreciate receiving your revised chapter within six weeks. Our goal is to have the entire program up and running by July of this year. I would expect that you would like to see how your chapter looks before it is sent to the printer. If that is the case, simply make a notation to that effect when you return your revised chapter.

Finally, please call me with your questions, concerns, ideas and complaints. Its a free call. Call me at 1-800-367-9723. And, oh yes, thanks so much.

Date: April 17, 1989

Just in case, I wanted to let everyone know that the meeting has been cancelled. Actually, Ed Rochette was the only one from the Editorial Board that would have been able to make it.

There are some hot issues that have to do with the change in format size. Meeting in August will only leave us a couple of months to implement any new ideas or changes due to the fact that we will be going to press for the January issue in November. Or at least will be fairly locked up for the January issue by early November.

Donn remarked that he would be sending some suggested topics for the August meeting separately.

I have a feeling though, that Ed Rochette may have some ideas that he will be distributing to all of you for consideration prior to the August meeting.

We have again reached the end of another successful fiscal year for ANA and ANACS. In the previous year, ANA has a new Executive Director, new Educational Director, new ANACS Director and we have begun encapsulating U.S. coins and patterns. The coin "CACHE" is expected to help renew ANACS image as the leading numismatic authority in authentication and grading.

ANACS appreciates your cooperation and enthusiasm as a valued member of our consultant staff. Whether you are consulted frequently or not, it is comforting for us to know that you are always willing and able to assist the certification service.

Your check for $1.00 is enclosed herewith. While this cannot possibly justify all of your time and energy, we do hope that it allows us to continue cooperating with each other throughout the coming year.

Thanks again for your continued support and assistance.

RE: Correspondence Course Revision

Dear Eric:

The correspondence course revision is progressing quite well. We are fully committed to completing the revision by July, 1989.

John Davenport, an ANA Hall of Fame member and a professor of English composition for more than three decades, has agreed to edit the chapters so that they are verified and are all in the same voice, tense, etc. Before sending the manuscript to the printer, we will be sending it back to you for your final examination. We will need to have a short turn-around time for you to get it back to us if there are mistakes.

It has been suggested that we personalize the book by including a photo (passport type), your signature, and a short greeting/words of encouragement (ie. "Good luck," or "I hope you enjoy this chapter," etc.). Attached is a piece of plain white stationery for your use.

Please place your signature on this sheet, with a brief phrase and return it to us in the self-addressed envelope by June 1. Also include a carefully chosen, sharp, black and white glossy photo.

Correspondence Course

As we near completing the revision, please keep in touch regarding your ideas and concerns. We want this course to be something all of us, including you, can be proud of.

Again, thanks so much for all that you have contributed to this important project.

Dear Mr. Logan:

Eric Newman has asked me to provide some help with the project you have undertaken concerning the proof strikings of half dollars dated 1833, 1834 and 1835. I am happy to do whatever I can in this regard, but unfortunately I will be tied up with the ANA Summer Seminar and some business for the next few weeks.

If you are in no special rush for this information, I will get to it as soon as I can, and perhaps will be able to have something for you in Pittsburgh. I will be there, and I think that I will be able to recognize you. We met at the 1986 ANS Silver Conference in New York City.

The three "mongrels" as they are called by the Bust Half Nut Club in their 1987 update to Overton, are extremely rare and I doubt that anyone will be able to sort out the various appearances at auction. Those shown in the 1804 Dollar book are (I think) owned by John Pittman; I will have to look at the old records to find out for sure.

Strange that the 1834 Proof in the King of Siam set is NOT one of the crushed edge pieces. The 1836 Proofs seem to have a normal edge even though they use the same reverse die.

Dear Ed:

Your article in Numismatic News of September 12, 1989, indicating that presidents of the United States did not have much interest in coins leads me to suggest a variant.

George Washington received a gift from the English coiners of the 1792 Washington pattern in gold and carried it around as a pocket piece. Does this give him some qualifications as a numismatist? I wrote the detail up in 1976 in Studies of Money in Early America. Maybe you might wish to make something of the topic.

Enjoyed seeing you and Maryann in Pittsburgh. Thrive.

Sincerely,

Eric P. Newman

mb

P.S. The fictitious story of Washington throwing a "dollar" across the Susquehanna River shows that he appreciated the shape of a coin for throwing purposes. If it had been in a rectangular slab, he could not have thrown it far.

Dear Eric:

To insure the continuing quality and relevancy of The Numismatist, the official journal of the American Numismatic Association, we are endeavoring to form a corps of contributing editors who will review manuscripts in their respective areas of expertise and offer their recommendations for publication. To this end, we would like to invite you to serve as a contributing editor in the area of "Colonial Coinage."

Once or twice each month, copies of manuscripts will be mailed to the appropriate contributing editors. Accompanying each article will be an evaluation sheet, a copy of which is enclosed. Editors will be given up to two weeks to review each manuscript. You can expect to review between 2 and 6 manuscripts per year. The staff of The Numismatist will be responsible for all stylistic and grammatical editing; your responsibility will be to evaluate the article's technical content and accuracy.

Tentatively, contributing editors will be listed in those issues of The Numismatist in which articles they have edited appear. Such editors receive no remuneration for their services other than our grateful appreciation and the honor of being involved in the production of one of the hobby's oldest and most respected journals.

As this program is still in the development stage, any comments or suggestions you might offer are most welcome. We look forward to having you as a member of our editorial team. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have additional questions.

Attached is a list of individuals who have accepted our invitation to serve as contributing editors. Our new manuscript review process will begin this month, provided contributing editors are available in the appropriate categories.

David Harper and Richard Giedroyc politely declined our invitation, feeling it presented a conflict of interests. We have yet to hear from Walter Breen, Bob Julian, Anthony Swiatek, Joe Levine, Neil Shafer, Julian Leidman and John Pittman.

Thank you for your input, Eric!

Dear Eric:

Thank you for your willingness to serve as a contributing editor for The Numismatist. The overall response was very enthusiastic, and I look forward to working with this fine group of numismatic professionals.

I intend to begin the manuscript review process within the next week, at which time I will send out copies of articles, along with manuscript review sheets, to the appropriate contributing editors. In most instances, I will not send personal letters of instruction along with the manuscripts, although you are welcome to call me at any time if you have questions.

Your involvement is sure to make The Numismatist an even better publication. As always, if you have suggestions for improving the system, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Those editors who contributed to the contents of a particular issue of The Numismatist would be listed in that issue. In addition, I would think that in the annual report of the Publications Committee/Editorial Advisory Board that all contributing editors who have volunteered their time would be cited. Arnie Margolis has suggested that we might pay editors $1 per year, much as ANACS does with its outside consultants.

Dear Michael:

Thank you for your willingness to serve as a contributing editor for The Numismatist. The overall response was very enthusiastic, and I look forward to working with this fine group of numismatic professionals.

I intend to begin the manuscript review process within the next week, at which time I will send out copies of articles, along with manuscript review sheets, to the appropriate contributing editors. In most instances, I will not send personal letters of instruction along with the manuscripts, although you are welcome to call me at any time if you have questions.

In general, a contributing editor's evaluation will ultimately determine a manuscript's acceptance. If for some reason an editor's evaluation is questioned, the manuscript may be submitted to another editor for a second opinion. A decision would not be overturned without first discussing the findings with both editors.

In some cases, an article may be acceptable if certain revisions are made. If so, these revisions (as recommended by the contributing editor) would be suggested to the author. The author can then attempt revision and return the manuscript for a second review if he so chooses. On the other hand, if a manuscript is deemed unacceptable, the reasons for rejection, as enumerated by the contributing editor (who shall remain anonymous), will be communicated to the author.

Your involvement is sure to make The Numismatist an even better publication. As always, if you have suggestions for improving the system, please do not hesitate to contact me.

December 4, 1989

Eric Newman
6450 Cecil Avenue
St. Louis, MO 63105

Dear Eric:

I would like to invite you to captain a team for the "1991 ANA World Series of Numismatics" to be held the evenings of August 13-15, 1991, at the American Numismatic Association's Centennial Convention in Chicago.

What in the world is the "World Series of Numismatics?" It is a one-time event spread over three nights during the ANA convention in which teams compete to correctly answer numismatic questions.

As envisioned, there would be as many as five teams competing the first night and five more teams the second night. The two highest scoring teams from each night would meet in the finals on the third evening. Each night's event should last less than one hour.

Before the competition even begins, ANA members will be invited to submit questions, with answers, in any of 10 categories, to be used in the competition. All questions that are used will have been checked for relevance and importance and the answer will have been researched to assure its accuracy. A point value will be placed on each question. As a team answers a question correctly, it earns the assigned points and the right to choose the category and point value for the next question to be thrown out to all the teams. Points are deducted from the team's score for incorrect responses.

Donn Pearlman has enthusiastically agreed to serve as master of ceremonies. Donn will certainly bring the proper mixture of professionalism and levity to the entire proceedings. Walter Breen will be the resident expert--the final arbiter. In addition, Walter will make all final decisions regarding a question's appropriateness, point value and assigned category. Walter will also make the final determination regarding the accuracy of every answer.

As a captain, you will be responsible for assembling your team (yourself and 2 teammates) and serve as the team spokesperson during the competition.

December 4, 1989

You will certainly want to field as strong a team as possible. To do that, keep in mind that questions will be asked in only the following categories:

- Ancient and Medieval Coins
- Oriental Coins
- World, Modern Coins
- U.S. Paper Money
- World Paper Money
- U.S. Regular Issue Coins
- Early American, Territorial and Private Coins
- Tokens
- Medals and Decorations
- Commemorative Coins

Please consider serving as a team captain. It should be great fun, to say nothing of its educational value. I would expect SRO--standing room only--all three nights. Inviting members to submit questions will only heighten interest.

I'm certain that you have lots of questions and that until they are answered, you cannot commit yourself to being a team captain. Please call me (1-800-367-9723) by Monday, December 18, so that I can answer your questions and discuss the competition in more detail. Meanwhile, I have included a list of rules. The rules are not set in concrete and I invite your input regarding them. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

James Taylor
Director of Education

1991 ANA CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION
"WORLD SERIES OF NUMISMATICS" RULES

1. Teams are comprised of three numismatists--a captain and two teammates.
2. If need be, it will be the team captain that makes the team's official response to questions.
3. The competition will consist of two halves, with 25 questions each half.
4. Teams will accumulate points by correctly answering questions to the satisfaction of the expert judge.
5. Judge's decisions are final.
6. Each question will have a preassigned point value known to the teams.
7. Points are deducted from a team's score for questions that are answered incorrectly.
8. The last team to answer a question correctly chooses the next question category and point value.
9. Questions are tossed out to all teams. Whichever team responds first gets first opportunity to answer the question. If their answer is incorrect, then the team that responds second gets a chance to answer, and so on.
10. The two teams with the highest point totals on the first evening and the two teams with the highest point totals on the second evening earn berths in the finals. The team with the highest point total in the finals is the World Series Champion, forevermore (or at least for that night!).
11. In the event of a tie, there will be a 3-question playoff among the tied teams.
12. Questions will be asked in the following categories only:
  - Ancient and Medieval Coins
  - Oriental Coins
  - World, Modern Coins
  - U.S. Paper Money
  - World Paper Money
  - U.S. Regular Issue Coins
  - Early American, Territorial and Private Coins
  - Tokens
  - Medals and Decorations
  - Commemorative Coins
